Talk about animals not having any feelings. The story comes from Bangor to the effect that a horse driven daily for ten years by a man who had just died in that city, refused to rat after the death of the owner and so passed away and died of grief and starvation.

Parents little realize how important it is that they should have the names of their children registered as soon after birth as possible. It may mean considerable to the child in coming years. Many a fellow will wish he had been granted the rare privilege which, according to the American, fell to an Ellsworth young man. On looking up the records of his native town, he found, to his surprise, that by some oversight only the date of his birth had been recorded, with a blank left for the name. He immediately had the clerk insert the name of his choice, and came away proud of the fact that for the first time he legally possessed a name, and one that he liked.

The value of horses in Hancock county has decreased about $25,000, due to the bicycle fad. The bicycles in this county are assessed at $12,000, which of course does not take in all the wheels.

The soldiers at Togus are much taken up with a cat with a wooden leg. And why shouldn't they for there are many and themselves that are like sufferers. This is no strange affinity.

A nose party is latest. It came off in Bucksport, Me., the other evening, and is thus described by a participant: "Holes were made in a sheet large enough to admit a good-sized nose. Half of the party got behind it, and for a moment or two there was a widely varying assortment of proboscides on exhibition, ranging from the turn-up pug to the needle-pointed creation searcher. The party on the outside selected noses, each choosing the particular nose that suited his ideas, and the owner thereof was his partner for the evening. It was a solemn occasion."

R. W. Iyer, of Eastbrook, owns the first clock ever brought in that town. It is a large, old fashioned wooden wheeled clock and although it has been in service for ninety years, it is still in running order, and never fails to point its hands to the figures which mark the passing hours, most accurately.

A good story comes from South Norridge town, Me., of a minister who lived in that town several years ago. He was a very close-fisted man and very unpopular among his parishioners. A short time before he moved away, he invited a lady to come and visit his family for a few weeks. The lady went, and immediately upon her arrival was set at work. For three weeks she worked, packing their goods and doing all kinds of work. One day

A Lewiston young lady suddenly became deaf in one ear when a child, for which no reason could be assigned. A few days ago she went to a physician and had the ear examined, resulting in the extraction from the ear of a brass button. What a lot of enjoyment the young lady has missed in not having the ear examined when she first became deaf.

Eastport boasts of an unusually large proportion of aged people in her population. There are about 40 persons in Eastport between the ages of 80 and 90, inclusive, and some 75 between 70 and 80. This is a record that is a population of 5000 will be hard to equal. Go into any town or city in this state and there can be found a goodly percentage of old people. Maine is unquestionably the healthiest state in the Union.

The story is told of a Bliddeford man who keeps his horse in the front room of his house. We know of a man who keeps pigs in the cellar, hens in one room on the first floor and a horse and cow in another room, while he lives on the second floor.

Cape Elizabeth is the great cabbage growing region of New England and the shipping, of late, of big crates of cabbages to the West Indies and South America has served to gladden the hearts of the Cape Elizabeth farmers. Great Scott, just think of holed dinners in the tropics!

The matter of abolishing the city council is agitated in many Maine cities. A canvass of Maine mayors has been made and six of them favor the abolishment. Why isn't one heard sufficient?

In these dull times smart up-to-date merchants have to devise some scheme to draw trade. The other day a Calais merchant distributed free hot mince pies and music box strains which resulted in a big trade. A merchant in Gardiner gave away apples, on the label being the legend, "Please don't take one, but help yourself and take three."
